

Architecture Diagram

Request flow from browser to database. Reflects the actual layering enforced in code — the backend's `route → middleware → controller → service → Prisma` pipeline and the frontend's split between Server and Client Components.

